

NINETEENTH YEAR.

LITTLE CRUMBS OF COMFORT.

The Defeated Conservatives Try to Console Themselves.

THEIR VERY FOND DELUSIONS.

A Hope That Party Strife Will Dissolve the Chamber—Two Roads to Chose From—War or Fusion.

Hope Eternal.

[Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.] PARIS, Sept. 26.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to THE HERALD.]—However much they may endeavor to attenuate the results last Sunday's elections, the conservatives are fair to admit that the majority in the next chamber of deputies will be republican. As the prime object of the campaign undertaken by the committee of twelve had been to destroy that majority it is clear that the leaders of the conservative party have met with a crushing defeat. Some conservative papers seek to cover the disaster. The cause they represent has suffered by declaring that there will be a majority in favor of revision in the new chamber.

This assertion cannot be taken for gospel truth in any case. Even if there be a revisionist majority it would necessarily include radicals such as Floquet and Clemenceau. Floquet and Clemenceau allied with royalists, imperialists and boulangists. We should scarcely believe it even if we saw it. The wisest thing the conservatives can do is to abandon all hope of the constituent assembly for at least four years to come and make the best they can of the republic in the meantime.

Hope, however, is eternal. When one is dashed ruthlessly to the ground he is forthwith animated by another. Thus, they believe that, thanks to the strife of parties, it will be found necessary to dissolve the chamber. This, in our opinion, is chimerical. The history of the last chamber proves that it is possible. How the government is to get along is not altogether the question. Should we have the support of the majority and in the midst of continual crises, the republican deputies more than over-taught by experience, will sink their differences, when it is absolutely necessary for them to do so.

The conservatives have two roads open before them. They may continue the policy of opposition to the republic, or they may, to use the parliamentary word, "fusion." M. de Cassagnac advises them to do this, and argues that good may spring from an excess of ill, though recent history contradicts him. Another road is open to the conservatives, one likely to lead their steps through pleasant places, and in fact to be more in conformity with their strength in the chamber. They may, as they have done, declare that they will not support the constitution, which they should not. They may, with the moderate republicans to defend the real interests of the conservatives. Why, in a word, should they not be truly conservatives?

Opened Its Heart.

[Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.] LONDON, Sept. 26.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to THE HERALD.]—More than once reference was made in the Herald last July to the fact that the corporation of the city of London did not proffer a wedding gift to Princess Louise of Wales on the occasion of her marriage to the Duke of Fife. It seemed extraordinary that the richest corporation in the richest city of the world should not pay the customary attention to an event, the principle character in which was the eldest daughter of the Prince of Wales, where the rest of the world displayed an unusual amount of interest. The Herald even suggested that if only the cold comfort of an address should represent the wedding gift of the corporation, such an address should be enclosed in a suitable casket, at least, and not in an open chest. The corporation finally decided that its wedding present should be a congratulatory address. It decided at Guild Hall yesterday that the address should be enclosed in a casket worthy in every way of the traditions of the corporation for loyalty and magnificence.

THE FRENCH ELECTION.

Boulangers' Votes Don't Count.

Re-totaled in the Same Box.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—[The municipal commission has decided that the votes cast for General Boulanger in Montmartre in the recent elections are null and void, and that the labor candidate, who received the next highest number of votes, elected. The commission has also nullified the votes cast for Henry Rochefort in Belleville.]

Billion Confirmed.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—[The commission confirmed the election of Count Dorian (Boulangist) for the department of Morbihan.]

LIVERPOOL'S OLD HENCH.

Pon Fiver of the King of the Cotton Corner.

[Copyright 1889 by James Gordon Bennett.] LIVERPOOL, Sept. 26.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to THE HERALD.]—The manipulators of the cotton market continue to control matters pretty much at their will. Prices for September deliveries have advanced nine points from the lowest, and to-day there has been a further advance of four points. Speculators' purchases continue on the definitive scale of the past fortnight, though the excitement is growing and will culminate next Monday, when the month expires.

Steuatstrand, who is now attracting attention as the king of the cotton corner, is a strong built man, about five feet ten inches high, between fifty and fifty-five years of age, with a small but strong looking face, searching eyes and a cold, calculating expression. He is a very shabby, but his silk hat is old-fashioned and considerable time must have elapsed since it was purchased. His frock coat, buttoned close from the waist to the neck, is of blue cloth, reminding one of a superior police official. When attending the exchange he wears a black frock coat, and a black waistcoat, and a black necktie. He is a Dutchman but was naturalized in England some time ago. Steuatstrand was in coal, lately in salt and now in cotton. He doesn't belong to the cotton trade but simply walked into it on the purpose of speculation. Indeed he had not been heard of on the Liverpool cotton market until a year or two ago. He made up his mind at the beginning of that crop that seven million bales is not enough to supply the world. He admits he has been at work on the corner since last December. In the early stage of the movement as a bull he was backed up by three or four others in strong financial positions, but they have gone out with a profit while he holds on.

He has probably netted £150,000 already, and before he has finished he will have pocketed a quarter of a million sterling. As matters now stand there will be nearly thirty or forty thousand bales to come to him between this and the stroke of 12 o'clock on Monday from people who cannot fulfill their contracts, and they will have to pay him the difference in cash. He probably holds about 30,000 bales, valued in money at £700,000.

PHILIPS AT BERLIN.

He Presents His Credentials—A Flat-tering Reception.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—[William Walter Phelps, the new American minister, presented his credentials to Emperor William to-day.]

After an exchange of formal remarks the emperor entered into conversation with Phelps, detaining him so long that he and Count Herbert Bismarck, who accompanied Phelps to Potsdam, missed the train by which they intended to return to Berlin. To-night Count Herbert gave a dinner to Phelps which was attended by the principal attaches of the United States legation and a number of foreign diplomatic representatives. Phelps addressed the company in English, speaking of the unchanging and open cordial relations that have always existed between Germany and the United States. He would shrink no pains, he said, to strengthen that historic friendship. The emperor replied in English. From his youth, the emperor said, he had greatly admired the vigorous and energetic community of America, the study of whose history of peace had always excited his special interest. He had seen the eminent qualities of Americans, their spirit of enterprise, their sense of order, and above all their inventive genius, attracted the attention of the world. The emperor said he himself was drawn toward Americans, because they were closely connected with North Americans by many ties of kinship.

THE BANKERS.

Several Resolutions and as Many Lively Debates.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26.—[In the bankers' convention a resolution from the New York delegation recommending to congress that such action be taken as will revive the American merchant marine, and one from the Kansas City delegation which wanted the convention to endorse the object of the Texas coast deep harbor convention to be held at Tampa City, were vigorously discussed and finally referred to the executive council.]

The secretary's report showed an increase in members during the past year of 157, the total membership now being 1,870. The Kansas City delegation offered a resolution that section 5,198, revised statutes of the United States, governing national banks should be amended by congress as to extending the power of the national banks to the issuance of interest. Speedy condemnation of usury laws in general. The resolution also proposed that all banks should be amenable to the laws of the state in which they were located. It was not just that so heavy a penalty should be meted out to national banks for usury when state banks were amenable to the same law. It was finally referred to a special committee, which reported that certain banks were being used to amend the law in question so the penalty would be the forfeiture of only the amount of interest over the legal amount.

The lively discussion of the convention occurred over the report of the executive council recommending that the paper read by Senator John A. Logan, on coinage, be referred to the next executive council. The recommendation provoked a long debate. Finally a plan was adopted to fully consider Mr. Logan's proposition and take a vote on it by mail after the executive council had sent its report to the delegates.

The lively discussion of the convention occurred over the report of the executive council recommending that the paper read by Senator John A. Logan, on coinage, be referred to the next executive council. The recommendation provoked a long debate. Finally a plan was adopted to fully consider Mr. Logan's proposition and take a vote on it by mail after the executive council had sent its report to the delegates.

HE MURDERED HER HUSBAND.

A Alabama Negro Makes a Rash Confession.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 26.—[A special from Decatur says:] The vicinity of Houck's postoffice is in a state of excitement over the confession of a brutal murder by Tom Haywood, a negro.

About a year ago Thomas Williams, a mail carrier between Decatur and the city, was murdered by an unknown person. A few nights ago, Thomas Haywood, who lived on Mrs. Williams' place, went to her house, and presenting a revolver, demanded that she sell her place, flee with him to the north and there marry him. She apparently hesitated, and he threatened to kill her. Haywood confessed to having killed her husband, and said he would kill her if she did not flee with him. He was warned away and fled. If caught he will be lynched.

THE ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE.

Over Three Hundred Sit Down at its Banquet.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 26.—[Over three hundred persons sat down at the banquet to the Army of the Tennessee to-night. President, General Sherman, sat at the center of the table, at right angles to the tables at which the guests were seated. The first act of the banquet, "For Atlanta," was responded to by General Sherman, in which he was brief and in which he related only the already well known facts of the history of that memorable event. The whole plan of the program of toasts was followed out in the order of the events as they occurred on the famous Atlanta campaign.]

Stooping Arrivals.

At New York—The Rheatta, from Hamburg; the City of Paris, from Liverpool; and the State of Indiana, from Glasgow.

At Southampton—The Elder, from New York for Bremen.

At Queenstown—The City of Rome, from New York for Liverpool.

At London—The Elder, from New York for Glasgow.

At Bremen—The Elder, from New York for Glasgow.

At New York—The Elder, from Bremen.

The Sunday Congress.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—[The Sunday observance question, which has been the subject of so much discussion in the French chamber of deputies, was the subject of a Sunday is impossible weekly holiday should be given to employees. The congress also adopted a resolution advising employers not to pay their men Saturday or Sunday. The president of the United States in his letter to the congress said: "Experience and observation have convinced me that everyone who works with his hands and head needs a rest which the Sabbath alone can give."]

Forty-four Bodies Recovered.

QUEBEC, Sept. 26.—[The body of Richard Maybury, shockingly disfigured, was found last night under the ruins caused by the recent land slides. The number of bodies which were recovered up to date is forty-four, and one, that of young Pemberton, is still buried beneath the debris. Fourteen wounded victims are in a fair way to recovery.]

HIS FEAR OF THE AUDITOR.

It Hurries a Defaulting Fremont Manager to the Train.

GONE WITH A HANDSOMER MAN.

Ira Rakes Laments His Wife and Smashed Furniture—Persuasive Shotgun of Fontanelle Farmers.

A Fremont Defaulter.

FREMONT, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Z. Rosa, manager of the Fremont branch of the Linsinger & Metcalf Implement company, has disappeared. Yesterday morning Traveling Auditor Schisby came to the city. On hearing of his presence Rosa took the train, presumably for Dodge, where he has a brother. It was learned to-day that when he heard of the presence of the auditor he fled in haste, and that when he went to the train he told a friend he was going away and would not return for all the money in Fremont. An examination of his accounts disclosed a shortage of only about $100. It is a peculiar case, to say the least.

First all the candidates met last Monday evening, and by mutual agreement the three candidates for county treasurer were given the right to name the delegates. On Tuesday evening a caucus was held, and the same men were nominated for the office of county clerk, and another caucus will be held to-day to confirm or reject those nominated.

CALLOWAY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special to THE HERALD.]—Daniel Haskell, a ranchman, living two miles west, has been elected by the republicans for member of the legislature, to fill the vacancy caused by the Hon. James Whitehead. A large majority of the people in this assembly are for county division and Mr. Haskell is a well-known anti-divisionist.

Weeping Water's Pride.

WEeping Water, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the Noble Sewing Machine and Manufacturing company was performed to-day under the auspices of the Weeping Water chapter of the Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Nebraska, by J. J. Mercer, grand master, assisted by delegates from Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth and Springfield. Five thousand visitors were in this city and were entertained by the citizens at the hotels and by a barbecue in the park, after which a parade grand lodge A. F. & A. M. of Nebraska, by J. J. Mercer, grand master, assisted by delegates from Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth and Springfield. Five thousand visitors were in this city and were entertained by the citizens at the hotels and by a barbecue in the park, after which a parade

Deprived of Protection.

FARMINGTON, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The engine house, containing all Farmington's cars and hose with ladders and wagons, was burned early this morning. The house cost $300 and was insured for $400. The contents were insured for $800, but cost about $300 more than that. Nothing was saved. It was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary who sought to render Farmington powerless to stop fire on any time. Considerable excitement prevails, other fires are feared and the police force has been increased. The fire was caused by a man who was in the engine house and was found with a gun. He was arrested and is now in jail. The fire was caused by a man who was in the engine house and was found with a gun. He was arrested and is now in jail.

The Fair.

ARAPAHOE, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The fair at Beaver City is a great success. The display of live stock, fruit and produce is finer than ever before. Good racing is an attractive feature.

SEWARD, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special to THE HERALD.]—The Seward county fair was formally opened to-day and the numerous exhibits far surpass those of previous years. The races give promise of being of a high order and the attendance the first day was estimated at 10,000. The fair will continue for several days.

Crushed to a Pulp.

MEHNA, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The six-year-old son of Charles Chesley, living near Devil's Gap, about thirty miles from Seward, was killed yesterday morning by a runaway horse. The child was caught in the mill and had it crushed to a pulp under the mill. The child is still alive though suffering terribly.

Five Horses.

ST. PAUL, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Frank Iams returned home this morning from his trip to Europe bringing with him nineteen head of the best horses he has ever seen. He also brought some Shetland ponies. The horses all came through in good shape.

Off for the Pen.

ALBION, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Harvey Smith was sentenced to the penitentiary for the killing of George Logan last spring. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. He was returned to the jail here to-day. In the morning he will be taken to Lincoln.

A Missing Wife.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Mrs. Iakes is looking for her missing wife. He returned home last night and found the furniture smashed and the wife gone. It is said she has gone with an alleged handsome man.

On Account of His Knife.

ST. PAUL, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—In Judge Stotts court John Scorda was bound over for appearance to the district court for killing W. Koopie.

A Boy Burglar.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—F. G. Edwards, the boy burglar, to-day plead guilty in the district court, and Judge Gibbs sentenced him to the industrial school.

Held Up.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Frank Goff, a clerk at the post office, was held up last night by foot pads, in South Nebraska City, but he struggled and escaped.

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER.

It Leads to the Murder of a West Virginia Bride.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Word has just reached here of a sensational crime on the Big Hat creek in Lincoln county, ninety miles up Guyandotte river. Al. Brumfield, a newly married man, and his bride, were on their way to the post office, some distance from the creek. Just as dusk on their return, and when near home, they were fired on by a man who sprang from the bushes by the roadside. Mrs. Brumfield was shot in the head and fell to the ground unconscious. Her husband was shot in the right lung but managed to crawl to a neighbor for assistance. The nearest physician, twenty-five miles distant, was summoned, but arrived too late to render the woman any assistance. She died in a few hours. The latest information is that Brumfield is dying. It is the belief in the neighborhood that a suitor of Mrs. Brumfield, who failed to win her, is the assassin.

A Rotterdam Dock Strike.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—[An extensive strike of dock laborers has begun at Rotterdam.]

J. V. Weekbach, A. W. White and others, enjoined the council, preventing them locating the lights where they had intended.

NEBRASKA POLITICS.

BEATRICE, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The prohibitionists placed the following count ticket on the field this afternoon: Treasurer, William Craig; register, S. V. Shaw; clerk, G. F. Gale; judge, C. H. Barton; school superintendent, Maria Upson; coroner, Dr. C. Starr; sheriff, James E. Webb.

LOUIS CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The republican county convention which was held here to-day passed resolutions, among them the nomination of D. D. Grow for county clerk; Ed. Ackenback, treasurer; M. S. Adams, sheriff, and W. H. Burns, superintendent public instruction.

SEWARD, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special to THE HERALD.]—The manner of the selection of delegates from this city to attend the republican county convention, to be held here Oct. 5, is a little peculiar to say the least.

First all the candidates met last Monday evening, and by mutual agreement the three candidates for county treasurer were given the right to name the delegates. On Tuesday evening a caucus was held, and the same men were nominated for the office of county clerk, and another caucus will be held to-day to confirm or reject those nominated.

CALLOWAY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special to THE HERALD.]—Daniel Haskell, a ranchman, living two miles west, has been elected by the republicans for member of the legislature, to fill the vacancy caused by the Hon. James Whitehead. A large majority of the people in this assembly are for county division and Mr. Haskell is a well-known anti-divisionist.

Weeping Water's Pride.

WEeping Water, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the Noble Sewing Machine and Manufacturing company was performed to-day under the auspices of the Weeping Water chapter of the Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Nebraska, by J. J. Mercer, grand master, assisted by delegates from Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth and Springfield. Five thousand visitors were in this city and were entertained by the citizens at the hotels and by a barbecue in the park, after which a parade grand lodge A. F. & A. M. of Nebraska, by J. J. Mercer, grand master, assisted by delegates from Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Plattsmouth and Springfield. Five thousand visitors were in this city and were entertained by the citizens at the hotels and by a barbecue

Deprived of Protection.

FARMINGTON, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The engine house, containing all Farmington's cars and hose with ladders and wagons, was burned early this morning. The house cost $300 and was insured for $400. The contents were insured for $800, but cost about $300 more than that. Nothing was saved. It was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary who sought to render Farmington powerless to stop fire on any time. Considerable excitement prevails, other fires are feared and the police force has been increased. The fire was caused by a man who was in the engine house and was found with a gun. He was arrested and is now in jail. The fire was caused by a man who was in the engine house and was found with a gun. He was arrested and is now in jail.

The Fair.

ARAPAHOE, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The fair at Beaver City is a great success. The display of live stock, fruit and produce is finer than ever before. Good racing is an attractive feature.

SEWARD, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special to THE HERALD.]—The Seward county fair was formally opened to-day and the numerous exhibits far surpass those of previous years. The races give promise of being of a high order and the attendance the first day was estimated at 10,000. The fair will continue for several days.

Crushed to a Pulp.

MEHNA, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The six-year-old son of Charles Chesley, living near Devil's Gap, about thirty miles from Seward, was killed yesterday morning by a runaway horse. The child was caught in the mill and had it crushed to a pulp under the mill. The child is still alive though suffering terribly.

Five Horses.

ST. PAUL, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Frank Iams returned home this morning from his trip to Europe bringing with him nineteen head of the best horses he has ever seen. He also brought some Shetland ponies. The horses all came through in good shape.

Off for the Pen.

ALBION, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Harvey Smith was sentenced to the penitentiary for the killing of George Logan last spring. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary. He was returned to the jail here to-day. In the morning he will be taken to Lincoln.

A Missing Wife.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Mrs. Iakes is looking for her missing wife. He returned home last night and found the furniture smashed and the wife gone. It is said she has gone with an alleged handsome man.

On Account of His Knife.

ST. PAUL, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—In Judge Stotts court John Scorda was bound over for appearance to the district court for killing W. Koopie.

A Boy Burglar.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—F. G. Edwards, the boy burglar, to-day plead guilty in the district court, and Judge Gibbs sentenced him to the industrial school.

Held Up.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Frank Goff, a clerk at the post office, was held up last night by foot pads, in South Nebraska City, but he struggled and escaped.

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER.

It Leads to the Murder of a West Virginia Bride.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—Word has just reached here of a sensational crime on the Big Hat creek in Lincoln county, ninety miles up Guyandotte river. Al. Brumfield, a newly married man, and his bride, were on their way to the post office, some distance from the creek. Just as dusk on their return, and when near home, they were fired on by a man who sprang from the bushes by the roadside. Mrs. Brumfield was shot in the head and fell to the ground unconscious. Her husband was shot in the right lung but managed to crawl to a neighbor for assistance. The nearest physician, twenty-five miles distant, was summoned, but arrived too late to render the woman any assistance. She died in a few hours. The latest information is that Brumfield is dying. It is the belief in the neighborhood that a suitor of Mrs. Brumfield, who failed to win her, is the assassin.

A Rotterdam Dock Strike.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—[An extensive strike of dock laborers has begun at Rotterdam.]

TANNER'S "PRIVATE" LETTER

It Seeks to Convey a Wrong Impression.

A BAIT FOR OLD SOLDIERS.

Judge Goff is Sworn in and Makes an Appointment—A Heated Denunciation of Negro Outrages—The Knights Templar.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMAHA HERALD, Sept. 26.—[Special Telegram to THE HERALD.]—The publication of Commissioner Tanner's "confidential" letter to Private Dalzell, of Ohio, was talked about in Washington to-day, but was a surprise to no one, and contained no new information. It will receive no reply from any official quarter.

It is well understood that some gentlemen directly interested would have the soldiers believe that Commissioner Tanner's retirement was on account of his liberal construction of the law and the new rules, making it easier to procure new or increase old pensions. It is well known in Washington in every quarter that this is not true in the least possible degree. Your correspondent had a talk with Secretary Noble this afternoon in regard to Mr. Tanner's intimation that his (the commissioner's) order for a re-rating of pensions below $4 a month up to that amount and his order placing the testimony of a private soldier on the same footing with that of an officer were the cause of his trouble in the department. Secretary Noble would not speak for publication, as he will not engage in a controversy with a subordinate or any other officer, and is averse to interviews of the kind now being generally in times like this.

Shortly the report of the committee that investigated Mr. Tanner's official acts and the conduct of his office and of the employees under him will be made public to the public and that will explain all.

It is stated that the order referred to in the Dalzell letter by Tanner had no relation whatever to the retirement of Private Dalzell. The order was referred to by either the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utterances of Mr. Tanner and various other things distasteful to the administration and injurious to the public service were referred to by the president or the secretary of the interior in their several talks with the commissioner in which the management of the pension office was discussed, and the utter